

Psychological Profile of Students in Special Class for Sports Soccer at State High School, Special Region of Yogyakarta

by Komarudin*, Dimyati, Joko Purwanto, Ermawan Susanto

ABSTRACT

This study aims to determine the psychological profile that is limited to the aspects of the level of self-confidence, cohesiveness, and emotional intelligence of the students of the Special Class for Sport in the sport of soccer at SMA Negeri DIY. This research is a descriptive research. The method used is a survey. Instruments to collect data using a questionnaire. The sample in this study was the Special Class Students for Football at SMA Negeri DIY, which were taken using a purposive sampling technique. Data analysis used quantitative descriptive analysis which was presented in percentage form. The results showed (1) the confidence of the Sports Special Class Students at SMA Negeri DIY was 8.33% in the "very low" category, 16.67% "low", 37.50% "enough", 37.50% "high", and 0% "very high". (2) Cohesiveness of 8.33% in the "very low" category, 29.17% "low", 25.00% "enough", 37.50% "high", and 0% "very high". (3) Emotional intelligence category is 4.17% "very low", 29.17% "low", 37.50% "enough", 29.17% "high", and 0% "very high". Keywords: self-confidence, cohesiveness, emotional intelligence, football.

Kata Kunci: confidence, cohesiveness, emotional intelligence, football.