

Learning Gending Dolanan Children at Pertiwi Kindergarten School, Pura Pakualaman, Yogyakarta

by Sutiyono, Moh. Mukti, Bambang Suharjana

ABSTRACT

Abstract: One of the efforts to counteract the currents of globalization that hit life today, can be done by introducing and instilling local wisdom values. The values of local wisdom are found in folklore, fairy tales, and children's plays (songs/texts). Gending (song/text) for children is a type of folk song, which is usually performed by children while playing and singing. Folk singing is a genre or form of folklore consisting of words and songs. In the pieces (songs/texts) of children's plays there is an educational value so that it can be said that the pieces of children's plays contain entertainment and benefits in the form of moral and ethical education. This research seeks to explore children's musical repertoire at the Pakualaman Kindergarten School, Yogyakarta. The research method used in this research is descriptive qualitative. The results of the study stated: (1). The students can mention the name of the dolanan gending, (2). The students can demonstrate the movements and songs on behalf of the gending dolanan in class, and (3). Students can interpret gending dolanan which contains educational values, moral education, and character. Keywords: local wisdom values, dolanan songs, educational values, character, folklore

Kata Kunci: local wisdom values, dolanan songs, educational values, character, folklore