ABSTRACT

The community service program activities conducted with training and mentoring in the making of shibori on tote bags at MTS Negeri 3 Klaten have provided significant benefits for the students. The main objective is to enhance the creativity of junior high school students. In the implementation of these activities, it is necessary to consider the timing of the training that aligns with the students' busy schedules and the optimal mentoring duration to achieve the best results in shibori making. The implementation of this activity is considered successful as the participant quota was met, it was conducted according to the schedule, and it provided valuable benefits to the participants.
