ABSTRACT

Community service activities with the theme "Socialization and Discussion on Optimizing the Use of Student Worksheets during Study from Home (SfH)" aims to help Sociology teachers in high school in identifying and determining the exact form or type of Student Worksheet used during online learning during the Covid-19 pandemic. The method of implementation of community service activities is carried out by means of socialization and discussion. The target audience of this community service activity were sociology teachers in Senior High School in Yogyakarta City, Bantul Regency, and Sleman Regency, with a total of 19 participants. Community service activities took place on July 30, 2020 - with online mode. Community service activities are carried out in several stages: (1) identification of learning assessment using Google Form, (2) team discussions related to identification results, and (3) implementation of online socialization and discussion. In general, the results of Community service activities received a positive response from participants. Some participants who initially did not know how to use the Student Worksheet as a media and learning assessment instrument during Study from Home (SfH) became more understanding. The results of this Student Worksheet identification will then be used by participants in the learning process and assessment of learning in the final semester of the 2020/2021 school year, especially in Sociology subjects.
