ABSTRACT

Classroom action research use to improve the quality of process pembelajaran and learning outcomes of students at grade level. Classroom action research is also useful for teachers to prove whether a theory of learning in accordance with the conditions facing the class or not. Through classroom action research teachers can apply the theory or learning strategy that best suits their classroom conditions. The objective of the devotion to the community (PPM) is to assist teachers of SMK Negeri 1 Godean in the preparation of classroom action research proposal.

The method used in this PPM activity is training and mentoring to teachers of SMK Negeri 1 Godean. This activity begins with the provision of materials on the urgency of classroom action research (CAR) to improve teacher motivation in implementing CAR. After giving the materials the teachers were given training to prepare the CAR proposal . Furthermore, given the task independently to develop a CAR proposal according to field of expertise. After the CAR proposal so, the teachers were given the opportunity to present it and get input from the devotee team and peers. PTraining and assistance was done for about a month with details of the two meetings face to face, namely 11 April 2018 and May 7, 2018, and the independent assignment for 3 weeks.

The results of PPM activities show : (1) the number of mentoring participants for the preparation of CAR's proposal is 33 people; (2) most teachers are motivated to develop classroom action research proposals ; (3) as many as 33 teachers already have problems and titles of classroom action research ; and (4) 30 teachers already have CAR proposals.
