ABSTRACT

Sekolah Penggerak has a vision of realizing an advanced Indonesia that is sovereign, independent, and personable through the creation of a profile of Pancasila Students who are critical, creative, independent, have faith, fear God, and have noble character, mutual cooperation, and global diversity. The Driving School as a school that implements an independent curriculum (Kurikulum Merdeka) is expected to be a school that can move schools in developing learning outcomes and student character. To achieve this vision, the Ministry of Education, Culture, Research, and Technology of the Republic of Indonesia also designed an appropriate Indonesian Language and Literature textbook. This research study focused on various characters contained in the profile of Pancasila Students developed through textbooks Indonesian Mobilizing Schools. The source of this research data is 16 texts or reading materials in class VII Indonesian textbooks published by the Ministry of Education and Culture of Research and Technology for Mobilizing Schools. The data collection technique in this study is read and record. The instrument in this study is a human instrument, a guideline for analyzing the content of the character profile of Pancasila Students. Data analysis techniques in this study are in the form of data condensation, data display, and conclusion retrieval and verification. The validity of the data in the study was carried out through validity and reliability tests. Validity in this study is in the form of referential validity. Reliability in this study is in the form of intrarater and interrater. The result of this study is that six dimensions of the Profil Pelajar Pancasila appear in 16 texts studied. The dimension that often appears is the dimension of faith, fear of God Almighty, and noble character, while the independent dimension only appears once. This uneven distribution of dimensions needs to be evaluated and refined.
