

The Perceptions of Students and Lecturers About Guiding Process Thesis of Universitas Negeri Yogyakarta

by Dr. Sugito

ABSTRACT

ABSTRACT The government is trying to improve equity and quality of education. The Kebijakan of the Directorate General of Planning Education Cleaner 2009-2014. In the Strategic Plan stated that one of the policies to realize the availability of quality higher education and relevant is to improve efficiency, namely through the reduction of the period of study students. UNY as one of the higher education institutions seek to implement the policy. As stated clearly in the Strategic Plan 2015-2019. One of the strategic policies pursued is to improve the quality and relevance of education academic, professional and vocational, in line with the characteristics of Indonesian and international demands and integrated with research development activities, and community service. As the implementation of the policy UNY has sought to improve the quality of education. One of these efforts is increase GPA and shortening of the study period the student. Such efforts embodied in various programs, mualai of structuring the curriculum, improving the quality of learning and accelerating student thesis. Such efforts have showed encouraging results, particularly in improving the cumulative achievement index for under graduate. From the data table below describes that the cumulative achievement index of students over the last four years has increased very significantly. Meanwhile, in the case of the study period, despite no increase but still far from expectations. In addition, the condition of achievement among faculty is also very diverse.

Kata Kunci: Perceptions of Student and Lecturer