Abstract

Sendangsari District has a program to build culture and revive the potential of local wisdom which can be utilized in every field. As a result of interviews with the Sendangsari Village Carik, data was obtained that the Sendangsari Village Cultural Area is being developed but is not yet optimal. The UNY Community Service Team aims to contribute to developing the Sendangsari Cultural Area by developing traditional game guides and integrating traditional games with children's education to create quality village education. Cultural development that is integrated with children's education can be implemented through traditional games. Traditional games are part of local wisdom and are a very interesting medium for children to be able to optimize academic and non-academic achievements. Local wisdom-based education as a form of reflection and realization of Government Regulation no. 7 of 2014 and strengthened in the implementation of the independent curriculum. It is hoped that optimizing the utilization of the potential of the Cultural Area in Sendangsari Subdistrict can support the improvement of education, starting with integrating local wisdom in the form of traditional games with education. The service activities began with preparing a guidebook for traditional games and continued with providing training to sub-district instructors, PAUD teachers and elementary school teachers in the form of traditional games.
