ABSTRACT

PPM activities are held under the title of Enhancing Capacity Building of Sociology Teacher in Gunungkidul through Innovation of Learning Media Based on Technology. The aim of this activity is to improve the teacher's capacities in Gunungkidul Regency especially in the learning innovation for the newest curriculum through the development of information technology based on learning media. Participants of this community service are members of MGMP Sociology in Gunungkidul. This community services are held between June-July 2017 with some agenda. The agenda are (1) the policy of curriculum 2013, (2) the orientation of learning process in school, (3) the strategy and innovation in teaching sociology based on K13, (4) learning media development course, (5) how to develop video for teaching, (6) simulation and evaluation of teaching. The activities were carried out using Focus Group Discussion, Question & Answer, Guided Practice, Presentation, and Simulation. Limited number of teachers involved in this activities is the weakness. There are some reason, due to geographical factors, unequal school motivation and support. Beside the limitation, for all the community service well in run. The excellence of activities is the optimal implementation in terms of quality. Teachers participant really focus on the process of activities because the program is provided in accordance with the needs of teachers today and teachers have a strong willingness evidenced by the quality of learning media produced and success in the learning simulation process. In addition, through this programme can actually establish a relationship between the 3 elements of the MGMP, University, and local government. In conclusion, from the whole process of activity, it was found that the development of learning video based on information technology is very supportive to improve teacher capacity especially in sociology learning innovation for 2013 curriculum.
