ABSTRACT

Community service activities in the form of training in the preparation of classroom action research proposals for SMP PPKn teachers in Sleman Regency are aimed at: (1) providing training to SMP PPKn teachers in Sleman Regency on the preparation of class action research proposals, (2) providing training on steps which need to be developed in preparing classroom action research proposals, and (3) providing motivation and encouraging teachers to be willing to develop the ability to develop classroom action research proposals.

The method of community service activities is carried out with lectures, questions and answers and discussions. The lecture method is used to deliver material from the speakers about the preparation of a class action research proposal. After the material was delivered through a lecture, it was followed by a question and answer session regarding the preparation of a class action research proposal. Meanwhile, discussions were held to practice identifying problems that could be raised to be written into a class action research proposal.

The results obtained from the implementation of this community service activity are increasing the understanding of PPKn SMP teachers in Sleman Regency about the preparation of classroom action research proposals. Teachers are also increasingly understanding the steps that need to be developed in the preparation of a classroom action research proposal. Through this community service activity, teachers are also motivated and encouraged to develop the ability to prepare classroom action research proposals. This community service activity was attended by 40 PPKn Middle School teachers in Sleman Regency. The activity was carried out in a limited manner and was not attended by all SMP PPKn teachers in Sleman Regency due to the Covid 19 pandemic. The activity was also still implementing health protocols in the pandemic era, including maintaining distance between participants, wearing masks, and washing hands before entering the room. to participate in training activities.
