

COACHING CLINIC FOR MANUSCRIPT WRITING STRATEGY FOR INDONESIAN POST-GRADUATE STUDENTS IN TAIWAN

by Ibnu Siswanto<sup>1*</sup>, Penny Rahmawaty<sup>2</sup>, Lina Nur Hidayati<sup>2</sup>, Achmad Arifin<sup>3</sup>

ABSTRACT

Taiwan is one of the countries that has the best higher education system and is the reason for around 5,600 Indonesian students taking Masters and Doctoral degrees in that country. One of the requirements for graduating from postgraduate programs at universities, especially in Taiwan, is publication in reputable international journals (SCI/SSCI Indexed), which often becomes an obstacle for postgraduate students to complete their studies on time. Therefore, this community service activity aims to conduct a manuscript coaching clinic for postgraduate students in Taiwan so that manuscripts can be published in reputable international journals. The activity was held on 25-26 August 2023 at the Secretariat of the Indonesian Muslim Student Forum in Taiwan (FORMMIT) National Central University, Taiwan. The results of the activity were that participants could produce manuscript drafts and manuscripts that will be submitted in international journals, cooperation documents between the Faculty of Engineering and the Faculty of Economics and Business with FORMMIT, and implementation of socialization for further Masters and Doctoral studies to Taiwan for UNY students.

Kata Kunci: Direct_aspects, indirect_aspects, manuscript_coaching_clinic