ABSTRACT

This study aims to determine; 1) what is the village resilience program in dealing with disasters in Indonesia, 2) 1) how is the village resilience program in dealing with disasters in India.

This research is a qualitative research with a case study approach. The sample was determined purposively in one of the villages in Yogyakarta and New Delhi. Data collection techniques were carried out by means of interviews and focus group discussions. Data analysis used interactive analysis by Miles & Huberman.

The results showed that; 1) villages in Indonesia have a natural disaster resilience program as a cultural force reinforced by government intervention. Each village has a hereditary tradition of preparing for disasters that occur either due to natural or human factors. 2) villages in India also have several traditions to deal with disasters caused by human and natural factors. The government also has a role in supporting village resilience programs against disasters.
