ABSTRACT

Community Service aims to provide a global insight into the apparatus about the development paradigm and the shift of values to be achieved in order to cope with the changing demands of society and global; provide training to village officials in Argosari Village about the development of strategic plans of development programs; and increasing citizen participation in the compilation of strategic plans of the development programs of Argosari Village, Sedayu District, Bantul Regency. Community Service is important to do considering that the preparation of a strategic plan that contains strategies and programs of village development has been done only as a ritual by the apparatus without any innovation and even community participation.

The methods used in the Community Service are in the form of providing materials on the preparation of strategic plans (training) and assistance to the apparatus and stakeholders in the process of preparing village development plans such as the Village Mid Term Development Plan (RPJMDes) and Annual Working Plan (RKT). In training activities, the devotees provide materials on RPJMDes using the Community Learning and Action Participatory (CLAPP) approach and SWOT Analysis.

The result of community service shows that Argosari village officers and trainees and facilitators are very enthusiastic to participate in PKM activities. This can be seen from their attendance rate of 30 people from the target set as many as 35 people. In addition, active participation of the participants is also evident from discussions and mentoring activities. In the future, the participants expected that PKM activities can be continuously carried out considering that so far PKM activities have not even been done in Argosari Village.
