

TRAINING ON TEACHING AND CARING FOR EARLY CHILDREN AT HOME THROUGH ONLINE PARENTING IN THE COVID 19 PANDEMIC PERIOD

by Puji Yanti Fauziah, Yoyon Suryono, Sugito, SW Septiarti, Erma Kusumawardani

ABSTRACT

The development of the condition of the Indonesian Nation which is facing a pandemic due to the Covid 19 Virus, has caused all activities to stop with the existence of the National Social Distancing policy. Including the teaching and learning process of children at school. From the Early Childhood level to college, finally children have more time with their parents. The limited ability of parents in carrying out education and child care creates new problems, because even though the children are at home, the learning process continues with instructions from school and learning is carried out at home. So that the impact of the existence of Work From Home (WFH) and Learn From Home (LFH) resulted in stress for children and parents, and many children who cried learning at home because of the inability of parents in the context of material mastery and the ability to stimulate and raise children in the long term time is very long and parents have limited time because parents have to work. Online parenting training is aimed at institution managers and PAUD teachers, attended by 30 participants from various institutions, conducted pre and post-set by participants. And participants get the most active participant rewards and various kinds of criteria as encouragement. The training is held online.

Kata Kunci: Pandemic, Parenting online, ECE