ABSTRACT

Soeharto's leadership period collapsed as a result of the practice of state life far from the ideals of democracy. Corruption, Collusion, and Nepotism Practices are the defects that have caused the Suharto regime to collapse under the swiftness of ideas and reform ideals in all fields. In the next phase, both the pros and cons of the New Order gave their respective opinions and became a long polemic.

Research using document analysis. The data were obtained from books related to Suharto and his leadership. To check the validity of data using triangulation of data sources. Because of the data in the form of words, data analysis using interactive analysis Miles and Huberman.

The results show that conditions in the Soeharto era showed an era of development in all aspects of life. Economic life is strong on the surface, but weak at the root. This is evidenced by the occurrence of economic crisis that became the driver of the reform movement. In addition to the economic turmoil, it is also due to political, social, security, and conflicts resulting in a crisis of trust. The research on Soeharto's leadership style shows that Suharto's leadership is often referred to as an authoritarian leader. Suharto's leadership values ??are more characterized by the value of being Javanese who is always friendly and smiling in every situation and being kind to friends and foes.
