ABSTRACT

The purpose of this activity is to train housewives to work creatively by utilizing used goods as a solution to economic problems in the pandemic era. The methods used are lectures, demonstrations, and direct practice independently. The target audience is housewives in the Tirta Buana Yogyakarta housing estate, totaling 10 people offline and 25 people online. This training provides several materials related to efforts to increase the creativity of housewives so that they are able to be creative in utilizing the resources around their environment into products that have economic value so as to increase income during the pandemic. The material presented is acceptable, digestible, and well understood by the participants. The number of participants is proportional to the number of devotees (5:10) making this training more conducive. The activity went smoothly, on time and as expected and the participants were able to communicate well with the speakers and other participants.
